New Horizons for Economic Growth in the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Region

The ports of Detroit and Windsor are part of the world's longest deep-water inland navigation system – one that generates 227,000 jobs in the U.S. and Canada. Join the ambassadors of Great Lakes-Seaway shipping to learn how new ships, public and private investments, and marketing initiatives currently under way could lead to further economic development for the region.

Register today to hear remarks from President and CEO of the St. Lawrence Seaway Management Corporation in Canada, Terence Bowles as he discusses new ships, investments and innovations designed to make the Great Lakes-Seaway System more competitive. Attendees will also hear from the Administrator of the Saint Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation in the U.S., Betty Sutton on new market opportunities and the energy revolution that provide economic stability in the Great Lakes region and support the growth of the system.

The Honorable Roy Norton, Consul General for Canada in Detroit, will deliver opening remarks.

Secure your registration to take part in this like-minded network of top executives from the Windsor and Detroit port communities, shipowners and their commercial partners.
